Subject: Bradley International Airport Master Plan Update – DRAFT Working Paper #1

The Connecticut Airport Authority (CAA) is in the process of preparing a Master Plan and Airport Layout Plan Update for Bradley International Airport. Airport master planning is a systematic process that evaluates market conditions and the existing facility, identifies stakeholder needs, and formulates near- and long-term development strategies. The final Master Plan will provide the guidance necessary for CAA to address the need for, and improvements of airport facilities and land development considerations over the next 20 years and beyond.

CRCOG is a member of the Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) for the Master Plan Update. The first working paper for the Master Plan Update, including the introduction and inventory, is available for review and comment. The document can be found on the project website located here: <http://www.bradley-planning.com/s/WorkingPaper1.pdf>. Comments can be directed to either myself (jcarrier@crcog.org) or Molly Parsons with the CAA (mparsons@ctairports.org).
