How prepared do you think your community is in delivering emergency notifications?	Why do you feel you or your community is prepared (or unprepared) for an event? Natural hazard and disaster preparedness information can be delivered in a number of ways. Of the communication methods below, which do you think are the most effective in helping you and your community prepare to withstand natural hazards?	How have you received emergency information in the past?	Other - How have you received emergency information in the past?	Have you signed up to receive emergency text and phone alerts with your community?
1	Somewhat Prepared	Prepared	Town notifications allow communication to citizens	Television,E-mails,Social_Media,Radio		Phone,Internet		Yes
2	Somewhat Prepared	Not Prepared	have a generator, do not have a lot of fuel stockpile generator is good to have heat but not good for air conditioning not aware of town communications	Television,E-mails,Radio		Phone		Yes
3	Well Prepared	Very Well Prepared	Great communication with residents	Television,Public_Awareness_Events,Social_Media,Radio		Television,Phone		Yes
4	Sufficiently Prepared	Somewhat Prepared	We have a generator. Community has CERT team. Manchester delivers emergency notifications effectively by email. But I am unaware of other avenues for such notifications, and many people do not receive the emails. If email didn't work or I didn't have my phone, I don't know how notifications would be received.	Public_Awareness_Events,Brochures,E-mails		Phone		Yes
5	Somewhat Prepared	Somewhat Prepared	We've never needed community response to such an event, so I do not know how well they would do.	Brochures,E-mails,Radio		other	email

8	Somewhat Prepared	Somewhat Prepared	Community shelters, battery-powered radio and portable lights	Television,E-mails,Radio		Television,Phone		No
9	Well Prepared	Well Prepared	well-informed, generator, provisions, CERT The three Bolton Lakes are maintained by three dams (two in Vernon and one in Bolton). Each dam is equipped with a drawdown capability. This drawdown capability was originally considered useful for flood control. However, the CT DEEP has consistently denied the use of this drawdown capability except for seasonal winter lake lowering. This policy is unreasonable in the face current heavy rain events which have and will cause property damage.	Television,Public_Awareness_Events,E-mails		Television,Phone,Internet,other	word of mouth	Yes
10	Well Prepared	Somewhat Prepared		E-mails,Radio,other	automated phone messaging - Bolton has it	Phone,Internet		Yes
11	Somewhat Prepared	Not Prepared		Television,Brochures,E-mails,Social_Media		Television,Phone		Yes
12	Not Prepared	Prepared	Hasn't been communicated well to my knowledge. They did communicate places for relief from extreme heat. We can power our house from our hybrid car through a 1000 watt inverter and some emergency outlets we installed. Cooking is more of a problem since we switched from a gas to induction stove. Without solar panels and battery storage, home electrification will make us more vulnerable to electric grid outages. Town has generators at important buildings but I think that businesses that provide essential services are not able to operate in grid outages. It would be good to develop microgrids at small local strip malls with food and medicine stores, urgent care centers, gas stations, propane suppliers, etc with solar and battery power supply. I think that our digital phone network that requires distributed grid power to operate is much less robust than the old phone system powered by central offices with battery backup.	Television,Outdoor_Advertisements,Radio		Internet,Social_Media		No
13	Somewhat Prepared	Well Prepared		Public_Meetings,E-mails,other	webinars	Phone,Internet		Yes

15	Very Well Prepared	Very Well Prepared	At home: generator, fireplace and stocked wood, camping equipment and propane, water purification equipment, prepare when possible by filling water in tubs for flushing/bathing. Town: Local gas station has generator, town has high school shelter, fire department provides tap water, good town notification system. 19	Somewhat Prepared	Not Prepared	no info provided I am unsure because we do not have emergency drills or instructions from our landlord. The household is pretty unprepared it seems. The place of work is sufficiently prepared in comparison.	Television,Public_Awareness_Events,E-mails,Social_Media		Television,Internet,Social_Media		Yes
20	Somewhat Prepared	Well Prepared	My residence is powered by generators. We have reasonable warning system and protocols to follow. However I think those in charge may be unrealistic about the frequency and severity of dire situations in coming years. 10	Yes	Yes	I repeat for emphasis: The three Bolton Lakes are maintained by three dams (two in Vernon and one in Bolton). Each dam is equipped with a drawdown capability. This drawdown capability was originally considered useful for flood control. However, the CT DEEP has consistently denied the use of this drawdown capability except for seasonal winter lake lowering. This policy is unreasonable in the face current heavy rain events which have and will cause property damage.

15	Yes	Yes	There needs to be state laws requiring water conservation efforts earlier, before reservoirs and aquifers are too low. Also, burn bans for home fire-pit use and increased penalties and restrictions for home fireworks. Financial assistance for CT's small farmers who suffer crop loss is needed.

20	No	Yes	I think apartment buildings should have surprise audits by the government agencies to check their efforts towards making residents aware of emergency services and drills. Every new resident must be made to undergo tests to study mandatory safety precautions.
21	Yes	Yes	I wish my town would take more steps to ensure that new buildings are sustainable and efficient, and I wish gov't would offer more incentives to residents and nonprofits to prepare for the chaos that is nearing.
